ROMANTIC NOVEL vs. REAL LIFE

British humor has always been "hit and miss" for me. I enjoy a well-turned phrase or a clever double entendre, and the British are pretty good at that. But their physical humor usually leaves me wanting. "The Benny Hill Show" was a prime example of that. But there was a British TV show entitled "Monty Python's Flying Circus" that ran from 1969 to 1974. It combined humor featuring plays on words with some physical humor. Some episodes had more misses than hits, and some sketches were so stupid that you had to laugh. The show was not for everybody, but in my youth, I think I enjoyed it because it was something very different than the usual TV fare.

At this point you may be wondering how my column title fits with British humor. Well, there was a transitional line (later a movie title) spoken frequently by my favorite MPFC player John Cleese to indicate a change in the show's direction. The line was "And now for something completely different," which leads me to this:

"I wish we could sometimes love the characters in real life as we love the characters in romances. There are a great many human souls whom we should accept more kindly, and even appreciate more clearly, if we simply thought of them as people in a story."

G.K. Chesterton

How's that for different? It's a bit sad, really, to think Chesterton was correct; and one could make the case that he is off base on his observation. I hesitate to comment on romance novels and their characters since I've never read one. But, from Chesterton's perspective, these characters are one- or two-dimensional, yet are loved by romance novel enthusiasts. The characters' faults are forgiven by readers who, Chesterton believed, do not extend the same courtesy to people in their own lives.

Though these words were written a century ago I think we can agree with Chesterton that there are people in our lives who deserved more kindness. We have become so fragmented in our culture, that one ill-advised statement or even a misquote can make someone a pariah. Forgiveness is a rare commodity nowadays, but it is right up God's alley. And Lent is the perfect opportunity to not only forgive, but to be forgiven in the confessional. As David wrote in Psalm 51, "A humble and contrite heart, Lord, you will not spurn."

Romance novels are not real life, nor is Monty Python. Characters in novels are no more real than characters in Monty Python's "Dead Parrot" sketch. Characters in real life need love and kindness and basic human dignity. Almsgiving anyone?

St. Joseph Funeral Luncheon Ministry

St. Joseph Parish will be resuming our funeral luncheon ministry for the families of our deceased parishioners.

The funeral luncheon ministry is looking for volunteers to do the following

- Set up the hall the day of the luncheon
- Serve on the day of the luncheon
- Call parishioners to ask for food donations
- Provide salads and desserts

If you are interested in volunteering for this ministry, please contact either Mary Beth Elstro at 989-227-0088 or Cease Canfield at 517-420-7340.

Thank you to everyone who has made a gift or pledge commitment to our Diocesan Services Appeal. Our gifts to DSA enable our diocese to provide services crucial to our parish. The programs and services funded by DSA offer direct assistance to individuals and families, and to parishes, schools, and Catholic Charities agencies. "Love and good works" of the Church occur through dozens of ongoing ministries made possible by our contributions to DSA.

If you have not yet made a gift or a pledge, We invite you to do so today. Gift envelopes are available in church or the parish office. Or you may submit your gift online at www.dioceseoflansing.org/appeal. Your DSA gift will support the vital services and ministries that help bring the love of Christ to all we encounter.

In our first weekend we reached 3.4% of our DSA goal of $96,425.00 from only 9 families. We are grateful for these contributions and invite others to join together to push us over goal for the benefit of our parish and the wider church.
