HAPPY RESURRECTION DAY

By Deacon Marv

English-speaking people celebrate the Resurrection of Jesus on Easter. But the word "Easter" does not appear at all in the New Testament. St. Bede the Venerable, an important historian of early England, tells us that "Easter" comes from

"Oestre," a Germanic pagan goddess of Spring and fertility. St. Bede suggests that although the pagan Anglo-Saxons of England converted to Christianity, they retained the name of that goddess to celebrate the Resurrection of Jesus.

However, in Spanish-speaking countries, our Easter Sunday is translated and spoken as "El Domingo de Resurreccion"--- Resurrection Sunday. Some have given me a curious look as I returned their "Happy Easter" with "Happy Resurrection Day." Regardless of the title, we should be inspired to reflect often on Christ's rising from the dead and His promise of eternal life if we strive to be faithful.

HAPPY RESURRECTION DAY

Rejoice!

He Is Risen!

WE ARE ALL EVANGELIZERS

(and whatever else is on Deacon Eric's mind)

"AND NOW, THE REST OF THE STORY"

(Actually, I don't know if I can add much to Deacon Marv's great reminder, although I did want to do my Paul Harvey impression for you.)

As usual, Deacon Marv gets to the heart of the matter when it comes to this day we are celebrating. Though Easter comes at the beginning of Spring, it's critical that we remember this day as the Resurrection Day because, as I mentioned in my homily last week, without Jesus' Resurrection, nothing else matters. His life on earth was for the sole purpose of sacrificing himself for our sins and opening the gates of heaven for us.

At this point in history, even devout Christians in English -- speaking countries will continue to call this day Easter - though St. Bede has clearly pointed out that the word comes directly from the Germanic word for Oestre, the goddess of Spring and fertility. St. Bede lived in the eighth century, so if the Church were to have dumped the word Easter and opted for Resurrection Sunday, we would have done it long ago.

Deacon Marv's point is still well-taken: that we must retain the remembrance that this day is about Jesus' Resurrection, not a fictional rabbit that hides eggs and jelly beans for kids. There is nothing wrong with an Easter egg hunt, as long as we are teaching our children that it is just a fun activity. Such events are secondary to our Christian beliefs.

So I will join the wise Deacon Marv in wishing everyone a Happy Resurrection Day full of family fun and blessings. But, like the Christian reminder of Christmas "remember the reason for the season," let's keep Our Lord's sacrifice for us in mind. And let's not forget Deacon Marv's final statement that Jesus promised us eternal life "if we strive to be faithful."
