God took the fragrance
of a flower...
The majesty of a tree...
The gentleness of morning dew...
The calm of a quiet sea...
The beauty of the twilight hour...
The soul
of a starry night...
The laughter of a
rippling brook...
The grace of a bird
in flight...
Then God fashioned
from these things
A creation like no other,
And when his masterpiece was through
He called it simply - Mother.

WE ARE ALL EVANGELIZERS

(and whatever else is on Deacon Eric's mind)

EXODUS: GREAT SALVATION: GREATER

Nostalgia—trip down memory lane—has its pluses and minuses. I recently had a day in which I experienced each.

One of the themes that kept resurfacing during our look at the first season of "The Chosen" was the emphasis on the Exodus and the Old Covenant between God and the Israelites. But what this Jesus-centered series says when it comes to salvation history is: "Remember the past, but look to the future." The study guide for the series puts it this way:

He (God) didn't want Israel celebrating their history to the detriment of their future. He didn't want them thinking the God of miracles was a thing of the past. Instead he is asking them to follow the One who does new things, forges new paths and carries his chosen people along.

We, too, need to guard against falling into a similar singular mindset, such as seeing Jesus only as an historical figure who walked the earth some two thousand years ago. We need to see Jesus as ever-present—our living God who is with us at all times. Remember the opening verses in the gospel of John: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God...and the Word was made flesh." Jesus was, is, and will be. He is perpetually in a state of "being." We can't physically walk with him as the Apostles did, but he is available to us now, 24-7-365. One of the great pluses of "The Chosen" is identifying with Jesus' disciples, and (to turn a phrase) "walk a mile in their sandals."

After discussing in class one day the need to avoid seeing Jesus only in the past tense, I went to a high school alumni dinner and spent hours with guys reminiscing about the past. I used to avoid this dinner because it tended to draw high-achievers, and I was not a high-achiever when it came to careers. It is populated by a great number of judges, lawyers, doctors, and successful businessmen. This year's honorees, for example, were the Archbishop of Guam and a former professional football player-turned-thriving entrepreneur.

Perhaps I've matured (some may challenge that word), but I've come to realize that I can celebrate their successes, knowing that I, too, lived up to the school's motto of "Goodness, Discipline, and Knowledge." I lived it in my own, unique way - one that may have not generated great financial wealth or honor—but in a way that has brought me great inner peace. I can laugh with my successful classmates in reminiscing about teachers, classes, and out-of-school activities. I can talk about the past, but not live in it. I know an ever-present Jesus has me just where he wants me.

May is the month of Mary

As we continue our celebration of the Easter season, we take time in the month of May to honor Mary, Our Blessed Mother. As we prepare to celebrate all mothers for their dedication and importance to our families, we honor Mary in a special way. We hold her in high esteem as the mother of Christ, and we have the confidence that she intercedes on our behalf.

Consider having your family make a home altar to honor Mary. The basics include:

A table or space in your home that is visible and accessible

An image or statue of Mary

Blue or white cloth (colors of Our Lady)

Flowers (real or artificial)

In addition, you may want to add:

Holy cards with images of Mary

Candles

Rosaries

Picture books and devotionals about Mary

Holy water

Words to Marian hymns or recordings of songs

When you walk by this altar, offer a Hail Mary prayer, a word of thanks, or simply pray "Jesus, I trust in You". An internet search of "Honoring Blessed Virgin Mary during May" will give you additional ideas.
