OLD WORDS WITH TIME- LESS APPLICATION

Sometimes I come across a writing or a speech that is a bit dated, but whose words are timeless. Such is the case, with a publication from Hillsdale College of noted Catholic author and speaker Bishop Robert Barron, who gave the commencement address at Hillsdale last May. Though his words were directed at young college graduates, they are noteworthy for all of us.

Bishop Barron recalled that noted abolitionist Frederick Douglas spoke at Hillsdale 160 years ago and the title of his lecture was "Popular Error and Unpopular Truth" in which he said "there is no such thing as new truth; error might be old or new, but truth is as old as the universe." Those words were never as applicable as they are in today's society as faithful Christians are aware. These words will be my comeback the next time someone tries to tell me I'm on the wrong side of history. Truth is truth. The world can't change the truth just because there's some who believe that by changing a definition or substituting a word for another they've changed truth.

Bishop Barron went on to look at a specific truth that philosophers have long debated and it's not what each individual ought to do, but what kind of person we ought to be. "Do we hunger and thirst for righteousness? Or do we seek our own advantage? In a way, he says "there is no question in the moral order more fundamental than that."

The bishop used an example from Plato's dialogue Gorgias in which the character named Gorgias is a sophist -- an expert in teaching the art of persuasive speech. What this leads to, of course, are a group of people who aren't necessarily seeking the truth, but want to appear truthful or just, and thus convincing to others. This was obviously very useful to lawyers and politicians of ancient Greece and in the bishop's words "it should be equally obvious that their descendants are rather thick on the ground today."

There's much more to get to in this speech than I have space for today, so expect a second column on this topic soon. But to wrap up this dialogue we see Socrates denying Gorgias that he would be using this skill to acquire the power of life and death over others. Socrates said he would not because he believed to put someone to death unjustly is no power at all. It is better to suffer wrongdoing, he said, than to do wrong oneself. Let's ponder that until next time.

(MOVIE NOTE) My wife and I stumbled upon a wonderful movie this weekend entitled "Dreamin' Wild." It just might get lost amidst the summer blockbusters, but is a great look at faith in family. It's the true story of a west coast musician, Don Emerson, who gets "discovered" some 30 years after he and his brother recorded their first album. The cast includes several well-known actors such as Beau Bridges and Casey Affleck and is rated (get this) PG.

Eucharistic Ministers Needed for Hospital Ministry

Lansing Catholic Hospital Ministry is looking for Eucharistic Ministers to distribute Communion to Catholic patients at Sparrow Hospital and McLaren Greater Lansing. We were away from the hospitals during the pandemic and are in a slow process of returning to the hospitals and rebuilding our ministry. A general orientation for new volunteers is provided by each hospital before a more specific training for hospital ministry is provided. Eucharistic ministers usually volunteer one day each month but may choose to volunteer more than one day a month or even one day at each hospital. This is usually a commitment of 2-3 hours but may vary slightly as the number of Catholic patients fluctuates from day to day. If you are interested in hospital ministry, please feel free to contact me: Cassian Hardie at (517) 364-2902 or cassian.hardie@sparrow.org.
