WE ARE ALL EVANGELIZERS

(and whatever else is on Deacon Eric's mind)

Questions

*Why do we never get an answer
When we're knocking on the door
With a thousand million questions
About hate and death and war?*

Studies show that four year old girls ask an average of 390 questions a day, or about one every one minute and 56 seconds. The math tells us that kids ask about 40 thousand questions from two through five years of age. My personal experience is that a vast majority of them begin with the word "why." And a high percentage of those are the question "Why?"--and nothing else.

Adults, of course, have questions as well, hence my opening paragraph taken from a song by the Moody Blues over 50 years ago entitled simply "Question." And it begins with the word "Why." It came out in early 1970 after the end of a turbulent decade in American history. In the 1960s, the country was divided about the Vietnam War, we saw racial riots and the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy, his brother Robert, Martin Luther King and Malcolm X. This left something like the song's "thousand million questions" unanswered.

You don't have to be an eternal pessimist to realize that we haven't evolved much as a society from then until now. A singer could record "Question" today and it would ring as true as it did back in 1970. I won't go into a litany of recent events in our world to make my case, but I would like to highlight what I learned today about the Catholic Church in Nigeria. Ninety-four percent of self-identified Catholics in Nigeria attend Mass last year on a weekly basis. This, despite the fact that over five thousand Christians were killed for their faith in 2023 in Nigeria. More than seven thousand were killed for their faith in 2021 and 2022 combined. That's more than 12 thousand Nigerian martyrs in three years and yet over 90 percent of Nigerian Catholics still make it to regular Mass. It makes missing Mass for a kid's soccer game seem a bit weak, right?

We even have questions in today's gospel account from Mark as well. The apostles James, John and Peter had just witnessed the Transfiguration, seeing Jesus in his glorified state with Elijah and Moses. But they walked away questioning what Jesus meant when he said they should keep this event to themselves until "the Son of Man has risen from the dead." (This questioning, by the way, only appears in Mark, although the Transfiguration is in both Luke and Matthew's accounts.) Mark doesn't specify what questions they discussed but scholars say they were likely along the lines of: "Why would Jesus have to die? Is he talking about the end of the age?" and "Would Jesus just be taken up, like Elijah?"

There are so many unanswered questions in our world that we can be overwhelmed. Added all up a "hundred million" may be an understatement. But we do have the answer to perhaps the greatest question of them all: "How do we get to heaven?" Repent and believe in the gospel.
