WE ARE ALL EVANGELIZERS
(AND WHATEVER ELSE IS ON DEACON ERIC'S MIND)

Reflecting on Time

In St. Peter's second letter, he tries to tell some restless Christians that the Lord does not look at time the way we do, saying: "But do not ignore this one fact, beloved, that with the Lord one day is like a thousand years and a thousand years like one day." It's not an exact numerical relationship as Peter describes time, but he's just trying to make the point that God lives outside of time.

Time is a part of our life that almost seems contradictory when we consider that we start running out of it on this earth the moment we are born. Time is an aspect of life which mankind wishes it had more control over. Most certainly, there are those who manage their time more effectively than others, but then there are those who act as if they have all the time in the world and don't want to be controlled by schedules. The second group drives the first group crazy. Fortunately, most of us live in the middle, trying our best to be "on time" when we have to be, but not living by a strict daily schedule.

The topic of time seems most relevant this time of year, because this is the last full week of August – the traditional end of summer – the end of the vacation. For many, the end of August is a sad time (kids), and for others it is a happy time (parents—and football fans.) The four seasons are a measure of time for those of us who live in a temperate climate, a constant reminder that time is moving on.

The topic of time is relevant for another reason in our household following the death of my wife's Auntie Virginia, who died at the ripe old age of 102. Funerals allow us to reflect on our lives. We pray for the repose of the soul of the deceased and take stock of the state of our own. Death marks the end of one's season of life on earth. Our turn is coming. When, we don't know, but the gospels give us many a warning to be ready at all times.

In formulating a homily for the funeral, I asked Auntie Virginia's son if he could remember a unique story about his mother. He didn't have a lot of the details, but he always remembered a story his mother told about a trip she and a sibling made with their grandparents to Missouri probably around 1930. The story ends with grandpa, who was probably born in the 1870s, tossing the car keys on the table and saying he would never drive again. He never did.

One can only imagine what happened on that drive, traveling all the way to Missouri and back at about 35 miles per hour, causing grandpa to react that way. I suspect it was quite an adventure – probably a metaphor for life, with potholes and bumpy roads, smoothed over by warm visits with family in Missouri. We know not our time, but let's try to fill it with family and friends, because we know the potholes are always going to be there.

Funerals when Fr. Mike is Away from the Parish

In 1970, the average age of active Catholic priests in the US was 35. Today that average age is 63. Many older priests are being asked to postpone their retirement to compensate for the shortage, but this is only a temporary solution. In just ten years, the number of priests is set to drop even more dramatically.

Canon 533 of the Code of Canon Law states: §2. "Unless there is a grave reason to the contrary, a pastor is permitted to be absent from the parish each year for vacation for at most one continuous or interrupted month; those days which the pastor spends once a year in spiritual retreat are not computed in the time of vacation."

With the increasing shortage of active priests, it is becoming more and more difficult for the average parish priest to "get away" for any extended period of time whether for vacation, retreat or family matters. Therefore, there is a great likelihood that if a funeral was to occur during the absence of one's parish priest, the parish deacon would be called upon to preside at that funeral.

Here, in St. Joseph Church, those in the parish office will do their best to find another local priest to preside at a funeral in such a situation. However, one needs to understand that it is not always possible to find an available priest. In that situation, Deacon Jerry Fust or Deacon Eric Elstro (our parish deacons) will be called upon to preside over a funeral if such a situation should arise. If this were to occur, the family of the deceased should expect to have a Vigil Service (as usual) the night before, The Rite of Christian Burial (without Mass), a Committal Service at the graveside, and be encouraged to have a Memorial Mass for their loved one once Fr. Mike returns to the parish or at a later date.
